Management's discussion of fund performance

The fund's Class F-3 shares gained 15.15% for the year ended August 31, 2026. That result compares with a 20.38% gain for the S&P 500 Index. For information on returns for additional periods, including the fund lifetime, please refer to capitalgroup.com/mutual-fund-returns-F3.

What factors influenced results

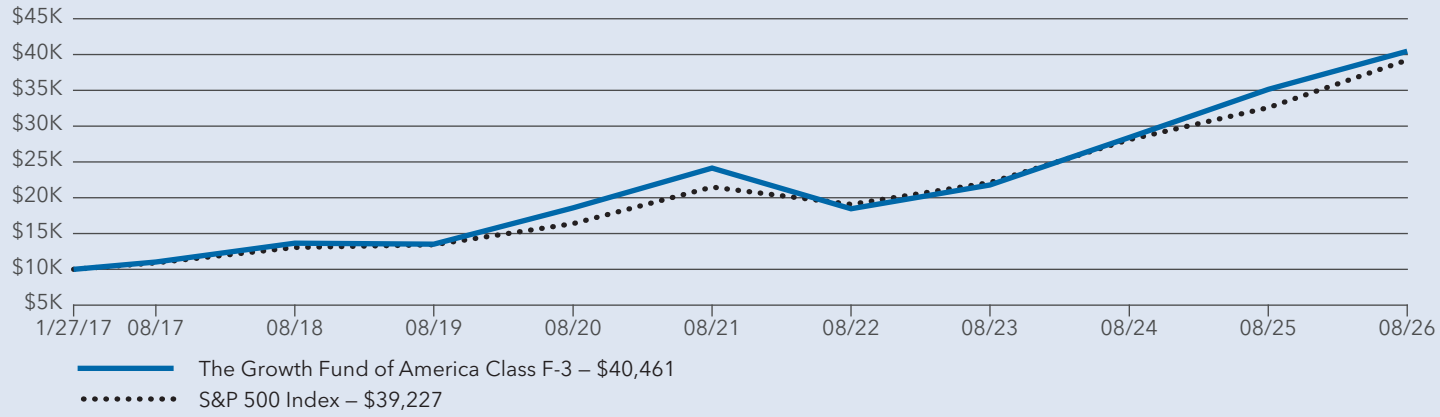

U.S. equities posted strong gains during the fund's fiscal year, driving the S&P 500 Index to record highs. Markets were supported by higher oil prices amid tensions in the Middle East and continued investment in artificial intelligence infrastructure. The U.S. economy remained resilient, underpinned by steady consumer spending, while signs of a moderating labor market prompted the Federal Reserve to implement three 25-basis-point rate cuts during the period.

Within the fund, most sectors contributed positively to returns, with information technology being particularly impactful. The healthcare, industrials and materials sectors also generated solid gains. Although it represented a relatively small portion of the portfolio, the energy sector delivered especially strong results and contributed meaningfully to fund returns.

In contrast, the financials and consumer discretionary sectors posted negative returns and weighed on overall fund results.
