Management's discussion of fund performance

The fund's Class 529-A shares gained 7.16% for the year ended September 30, 2025. That result compares with a 7.41% gain for the Bloomberg U.S. Corp High Yield 2% Issuer Capped Index. What factors influenced results

During the fund's fiscal year, U.S. corporate high-yield bonds delivered strong returns despite significant volatility. In January 2025, long-term Treasury yields approached decade-high levels against the backdrop of a widening federal budget deficit and shifting expectations around Federal Reserve (Fed) policy. The Fed cut interest rates three times during the period in response to the balance of risks between persistent inflation and signs of weakness in the labor market. Ten-year U.S. Treasury yields were volatile but ended the period near 12-month lows.

Within the fund, holdings in electric utilities and technology were particularly additive to results relative to the benchmark. Similarly, holdings in communications and real estate investment trust (REIT) bonds also contributed positively to relative returns.

Conversely, the fund's holdings in the energy, consumer cyclical and basic industry sectors had a negative impact on returns relative to the index. Additionally, the fund's exposure to cash/money markets and derivatives hampered overall results.

Changes in and disagreements with accountants

On September 9, 2025, Deloitte & Touche LLP ("D&T") was dismissed and PricewaterhouseCoopers LLP was appointed as the fund's independent registered public accounting firm for the fiscal year ending September 30, 2026 audit. The change in the fund's independent registered public accounting firm was approved by the fund's board of trustees, including a majority of the independent trustees, upon recommendation of the audit committee, as part of a broader effort to update board oversight and fund operations. At no point during the fund's fiscal years ended September 30, 2024 and September 30, 2025 and the subsequent interim period through November 10, 2025, were there any disagreements between management and D&T on any matter of accounting principles or practices, financial statement disclosure or auditing scope or procedure.
