Management's discussion of fund performance

The fund's Class 529-T shares gained 24.55% for the year ended December 31, 2025. That result compares with a 17.88% gain for the S&P 500 Index.

What factors influenced results

U.S. equities delivered solid returns in 2025, supported by strong gains from growth sectors. The S&P 500 climbed to record highs, driven by resilient consumer spending and moderating inflation. Strong consumer spending boosted the U.S. economy, with particularly strong growth in the third quarter. However, persistent labor market softness prompted the U.S. Federal Reserve to deliver three 25-basis-point rate cuts during the year.

Most sectors posted gains for the fund, with information technology, industrials and consumer staples contributing significantly. Returns from communication services and materials were also positive.

Conversely, the health care sector was a detractor from overall results.
