Investments are not FDIC-insured, nor are they deposits of or guaranteed by a bank or any other entity, so they may lose value.

89%

of all companies in America are small businesses.*

As a business owner, you must effectively:

- Run your company
- Manage expenses
- Understand your industry or niche market
- Hire and manage employees (if you have any)
- Market to your customers

But what about saving for retirement?

With so many other responsibilities to juggle, your retirement savings can get lost in the shuffle.

"A retirement plan can save money, boost revenue, and help give you and your employees a comfortable future."[†]

But a good retirement plan can help with other aspects of your business – everything from recruiting to retention to your tax bill, if you take advantage of available credits and deductions. And when it comes time for your own retirement, a good plan can help you pursue your retirement goals.

Ready to start a retirement plan?

34%

of small-business owners have no retirement savings plan for themselves.*

44%

of small-business employees do not have access to a retirement plan to help themselves prepare for the future.†

So what's holding you back?

Do I have enough employees?

There are plans for businesses of every size, whether you have three employees or 300 – even if you don't have any employees.

Aren't these plans expensive to offer?

A number of retirement plan solutions are more affordable than you might think. In some cases, your employees actually help pay for annual costs.

Small businesses may also qualify for federal tax credits as further incentive to establish a retirement plan. Ask your financial professional to learn more.

What if I can't afford to contribute to my employees' accounts?

Not all small-business retirement plans require the employer to contribute money. For those that do, your contributions are tax-deductible.

What if the economy gets worse?

Many plans offer flexibility in how you run the plan. You may be able to adjust employer contributions, if any, according to your circumstances and profitability. In some cases, you may even be able to discontinue contributions at any time.

Isn't it complicated to set up and maintain?

Today's small-business plans are relatively easy to set up and operate. Some have no annual Internal Revenue Service (IRS) reporting requirements. So you can focus on what's really important – running your business.

Consider the advantages.

As an employer, a company retirement plan may help you:

- Save for your own retirement
- Receive tax credits and other incentives from the federal government
- Attract – and keep – better employees
- Realize increased worker productivity, especially if your plan is connected to company profits
- Deduct all employer contributions from current taxes

Your employees (and you) may benefit because they can:

- Invest for the future
- Put away more money for retirement through most small-business plans than they might otherwise be able to save through an individual retirement account (IRA)
- Realize tax-deferred growth of investments
- Be more content (and therefore more motivated) with a benefits package that includes a company retirement plan
- Take advantage of the knowledge and experience of the financial professional associated with your plan

Did you know?

Some states and cities require, or are considering requiring, private-sector employers who don't offer workers a retirement plan to join a state-controlled program. Given the specific rules and restrictions of state plans, you may want to consider a traditional plan type when choosing the retirement plan that's best for your business.

401(k) plans

Available to:

Any employer

(except government entities)

“Think that 401(k) plans are an expensive benefit reserved exclusively for large businesses with deep pockets? Think again. While this may have been a reality in the past, many companies – including small businesses – aren’t aware that 401(k) plans can be affordable and attainable.”

– Human Interest,

Take advantage of tax credits

The SECURE 2.0 Act strengthened the existing startup tax credit on employer costs, to up to 100% of costs for certain smaller employers. Even more significantly, the bill created a new tax credit that reimburses small businesses for a portion of the amount of employer contributions made. Employers can also earn a tax credit for adding or, in the case of a startup plan, including an automatic enrollment feature as part of their plan.

Hypothetical case study†

A 401(k) plan really adds up for a CPA firm

The situation

The partners of certified public accountant (CPA) firm Foster, Dickson and Mann (FD&M) wanted to establish a program to save for retirement. At the same time, they wanted to address high turnover among the company’s junior associates and support staff as the practice hoped to expand its presence in the real estate market.

The solution

FD&M established a safe harbor 401(k), a type of plan that is exempt from nondiscrimination testing – annual tests required by the IRS to ensure a plan doesn’t discriminate in favor of highly paid employees – as long as the employer structures their contributions to meet safe harbor requirements and provides an annual notice. Without the safe harbor, employee contributions by the higher paid partners may have been limited by the contributions of the rest of the staff, who earn less. The safe harbor enabled the partners to maximize their savings in the plan – with contributions that were far more than would be allowed if they were to invest in an IRA – and a mandatory employer match served to encourage employees to stay with the firm.

†Not an actual firm.

Advantages of a 401(k) plan

Employer:

- Participants contribute to their own accounts
- Employer contributions (including a match), if any, are deductible as business expenses and may be eligible for a tax credit
- Flexible program designs to suit employer needs
- Annual nondiscrimination testing is not required for some safe harbor 401(k) plans

Participants:

- High contribution limits
- Loans may be available

A 401(k) may not be appropriate for companies looking for a plan with little or no cost and/or IRS reporting requirements.

401(k) plans – a closer look
Deadline to establish	A plan with a 401(k) feature must be adopted by the last day of the fiscal (plan) year; however, employee contributions may not be made prior to the plan adoption date
Contributions	By employee and, if desired, by employer on a discretionary basis or through an optional employer match
Contribution limits For 2023	Maximum participant contribution limit: $22,500
	Additional catch-up contribution: $7,500 (for those age 50 and older)
	Total contributions: $66,000/$73,500
	Maximum participant and employer contributions combined. Lesser of 100% of participant's compensation or $66,000 ($73,500 with age-based catch-up contributions).
Investment decisions	Employee
Vesting	Employer contributions may be subject to a schedule
Ongoing maintenance	Annual Form 5500 filing and, depending on the plan, various annual notices may be required
Annual nondiscrimination testing	Required (unless there is a safe harbor feature*)

*If the plan meets safe harbor requirements, it is deemed to satisfy key nondiscrimination tests and may qualify for an exemption to top-heavy testing, which compares the value of key employees' accounts to all participant accounts.

SIMPLE IRA plans

Available to:

Generally, any employer with 100 or fewer employees

“A SIMPLE IRA (Savings Incentive Match Plan for Employees) allows employees and employers to contribute to traditional IRAs set up for employees. It is ideally suited as a startup retirement savings plan for small employers not currently sponsoring a retirement plan.”

– Internal Revenue Service, December 2022

Additional advantages of a SIMPLE IRA Plus plan

SIMPLE IRA Plus is a type of SIMPLE IRA plan exclusively available at Capital Group. It offers all the same advantages of a SIMPLE IRA plan, plus the benefits and convenience of 401(k) plan features – without the higher price tag. Other features include:

- Option to set a qualified default investment alternative (QDIA), a default investment to help improve outcomes if participants don't select their investments
- Custom plan investment menus
- Select online enrollment capabilities

Firm has designs for a better retirement

The situation

Entrepreneurs Lisa and Daniel faced financial challenges when they first started their graphic design firm. Now, with a few regular clients on the books and three full-time designers to help handle the workload, revenue has been steady. The company is also on the verge of signing a contract with an important new client that could help bring the company to the next level. But the business owners are cautiously optimistic – worried that they could lose their best designers to other job offers at such a critical time.

The solution

A financial professional suggested that a retirement plan might help Lisa and Daniel keep the talent they've acquired – and attract new designers when the time is right. He recommended a SIMPLE IRA so the owners could focus on the challenges of their business, not on managing their retirement plan. They decided to offer a 3% employer match as a way to encourage their staff to save in the plan, while giving them the flexibility to reduce the match if needed.

*Not an actual firm.

Advantages of a SIMPLE IRA plan

Employer:

- Typically lower cost than a 401(k) plan
- Employees contribute to their own accounts
- Employer match is a tax-deductible business expense
- Easy setup and administration
- No complex IRS reporting requirements

Participants:

- Contribution limits higher than with personal IRAs
- Employer makes a contribution to each participant's account
- Immediate vesting (money in employees' accounts is theirs to keep)

A SIMPLE IRA or SIMPLE IRA Plus plan may not be appropriate for employers who do not want to match their employees' contributions or for those looking for a loan option in the plan.

Starting in 2024, SIMPLE IRA plans may be more attractive than ever, as the SECURE 2.0 Act will allow potentially higher contribution limits.

SEP IRA plans

Available to:

Any employer or sole proprietor

“The Simplified Employee Pension (SEP) IRA is an excellent choice for the sole proprietor who wants to save for retirement with a minimum of administrative headache. ... a SEP IRA can cover employees, thus allowing greater scope for business growth. The plan is easy to setup and maintain.”

– Inc., February 2022

New plan brings a smile to dental practice

The situation

Mindy has been a successful dentist for several years, with the help of two part-time dental assistants and two administrative employees. Next year, she would like to add a dental hygienist to expand the services her practice can offer patients. During an annual meeting to discuss finances, Mindy's tax advisor suggested that she look into ways to reduce current taxes.

The solution

Mindy turned to her financial professional, who recommended a SEP IRA – a retirement plan that could help attract a good hygienist and enable her to contribute an equal percentage of each eligible employee's compensation (including part-timers) to their retirement plan accounts. Given her income level, Mindy can save far more money in a SEP account than she'd be able to in a SIMPLE IRA. Her contributions would be tax-deductible and, if she establishes the SEP account this year before filing her extended October 15 return, she can still generate a large deduction on last year's taxes. Best of all, employer contributions are discretionary, so Mindy could contribute less – or nothing at all – in years when business is lean.

*Not an actual firm.

Advantages of a SEP IRA plan

Employer:

- Typically lower cost than a 401(k) plan
- Employer contributions are deductible business expenses
- Flexible contribution limits; you decide how much to contribute
- Annual contributions are not required
- Easy setup and administration
- Minimal paperwork; no complex IRS reporting requirements
- Ability to discontinue the plan at any time
- Limited fiduciary responsibility*

Participants:

- Employer contributes to each participant's account
- Immediate vesting (money in employees' accounts is theirs to keep)

*Employers have limited liability since participants make their own investment decisions.

A SEP IRA may not be appropriate for employers who do not want to contribute to their employees' accounts or for those looking for a loan option in the plan.

SEP IRAs – a closer look
Deadline to establish	By employer's tax-filing deadline (including extensions)
Contributions	By employer only on a discretionary basis; generally must be the same percentage for every employee
Contribution limits For 2023	Maximum employer contribution limit: lesser of 25% of participant's compensation [†] or $66,000
Investment decisions	Employee
Vesting	Immediate
Ongoing maintenance	No annual filings or annual disclosures required
Annual nondiscrimination testing	Top-heavy testing applies

[†]The 2023 compensation limit is $330,000 when determining maximum contributions. Contribution percentages are calculated based on the compensation limit; for example, for 2023 a 5% contribution would be capped at $16,500 even if a participant makes more than $330,000.

Payroll deduction IRAs

Available to:

Employees get a sweet reward

The situation

Luke is passionate about baking. He opened a bakery, serving his favorite family treats. Like many small-business owners, he's had good years and lean years. A small, close-knit staff has been on the payroll for some time now, and he wishes he could afford to do something for his employees who have become like family. At the same time, he'd like to put some money away for his own retirement.

The solution

A financial professional suggested a way to help Luke reward the staff he's come to know and trust. She explained that he didn't need to be a retirement plan expert to start a payroll deduction IRA program. It wouldn't cost anything to set up, and the employees themselves would fund their own accounts from there.

*Not an actual firm.

Advantages of a payroll deduction IRA program

Employer:

- No cost to the employer as employees pay account costs
- Employee contributions are automatically deducted from their paychecks and deposited in their own accounts
- Easy setup and administration
- Simplified IRS reporting requirements
- Limited fiduciary responsibility*

Participants:

- Choice of IRA – traditional, with pre-tax contributions, or Roth, with post-tax contributions
- Control – employees decide how much and how often to contribute
- IRAs may be funded for a nonworking spouse
- Immediate vesting (money in employees' accounts is theirs to keep)
- Ability to make withdrawals at any time, subject to tax and possible penalties

*Employers have limited liability since participants control their own investment choices.

A payroll deduction IRA may not be appropriate for employers who want to make larger annual investments toward their own retirement. Program also has no loan option.

American Funds' superior outcomes

Equity-focused funds have beaten their Lipper peer indexes in 90% of 10-year periods and 99% of 20-year periods.² Relative to their peers, our fixed income funds have helped investors achieve better diversification through attention to correlation between bonds and equities.³ Fund management fees have been among the lowest in the industry.⁴

¹ Investment industry experience as of December 31, 2022.

² Based on Class F-2 share results for rolling monthly 10- and 20-year periods starting with the first 10- or 20-year period after each mutual fund's inception through December 31, 2022. Periods covered are the shorter of the fund's lifetime or since the comparable Lipper index inception date (except Capital Income Builder and SMALLCAP World Fund, for which the Lipper average was used). Expenses differ for each share class, so results will vary. Past results are not predictive of results in future periods.

³ Based on Class F-2 share results as of December 31, 2022. Sixteen of the 18 fixed income American Funds that have been in existence for the three-year period showed a three-year correlation lower than their respective Morningstar peer group averages. S&P 500 Index was used as an equity market proxy. Correlation based on monthly total returns. Correlation is a statistical measure of how two securities move in relation to each other. A correlation ranges from -1 to 1. A positive correlation close to 1 implies that as one security moves, either up or down, the other security will move in "lockstep," in the same direction. A negative correlation close to -1 indicates that the securities have moved in the opposite direction.

⁴ On average, our mutual fund management fees were in the lowest quintile 62% of the time, based on the 20-year period ended December 31, 2022, versus comparable Lipper categories, excluding funds of funds.

Class F-2 shares were first offered on August 1, 2008. Class F-2 share results prior to the date of first sale are hypothetical based on the results of the original share class of the fund without a sales charge, adjusted for typical estimated expenses. Results for certain funds with an inception date after August 1, 2008, also include hypothetical returns because those funds' Class F-2 shares sold after the funds' date of first offering. Refer to capitalgroup.com for more information on specific expense adjustments and the actual dates of first sale.

Although Class F-2 shares are not available for purchase by retirement plans, their results reflect the investment management experience of American Funds without retirement plan recordkeeping expenses. American Funds offers plan sponsors flexibility in how they pay for plan operating expenses (such as recordkeeping fees) through distinct retirement plan share classes.
